“Three to a team,” Lila
O’Funnigan called to the crowd
of Honeysuckle Hollow kids.
“We’ll be starting soon!”

She and her little brother, Lolo,
stood with their parents, Milo
and Myra, in the middle of Honeysuckle Market Square.

It was Saturday, one of the busiest days of the week for the O’Funnigan family, who are popular event planners.

Customers, big and small, rely on them to come up with fun ideas—magic shows, concerts, even skating parties!

Today, they have planned an event for kids at the shopping center while their parents run errands.

“Now that you’re in groups of three, Lolo and I will give each team a scavenger hunt list,” said Myra.

“Remember,” said Milo O’Funnigan, “work together and use the clues to find any one item on the list—which could be anywhere in Market Square.”

“The shopkeepers will let you bring it to us,” Myra said. “And if each team finds one item, everyone gets a treat!”

“I’m excited we got to think up the clues,” Lila whispered to Lolo.

“But I hope we didn’t make them too hard.”

Then Milo shouted,
“Let the scavenger hunt fun begin!”

The teams started by reading all four clues.

“I’m a scarf that might fly away,” Liv Skyhopper read aloud. “We’ll never guess that one...”

“A-ha! Follow me to the clothing shop,” blurted out Kelly Quickquack, her teammate.

“A scarf that might fly away!” she said, twirling a boa of pink feathers around her neck.

Violet Whiffpuff's team
puzzled over the next clue:
*“I’m frozen cold but I don’t
need a blanket.”*

“Oh-oh,” said Lolo. “Violet’s team looks so unhappy. What if this clue is too hard and
they can’t guess it?”

But suddenly Violet's sister, Iris, was leading the team to the soda shop.

“The answer is ice cream!”
Iris said, as Fizz Oliphant
treated each teammate
to a taste of deliciously
cold ice cream.

Lola and Lila noticed that Hip and Hop Croakalily
and Pete Whooswhoos
looked stumped.

*“If I were bigger, I’d bring
you along and we could go round and round together,”* Pete read aloud. Hip
shrugged.

Then, “I’ve got it!”
Hop cried. “Follow me!”
He hopped over to the train
in the toy and candy shop.

“Choo-choo!” Hop said,
and Pete and Hip clapped.

that hasn’t solved a clue,”

Lolo said to Lila.

“And Mom and Dad
don’t look worried.”

“Maybe our clues were just right,” Lila said, hopefully.

Scavenger Hunt

- I'm a giant with wings.
My honey!
- I'm brown and hot!
But I need a library!
- I'm a finger - I'm long and
strong, but you could go round both ways!
- I'm a yellow thing but when you eat it, it turns red.

And sure enough, Star Hoppingood and the Woofwinkles were grinning
from ear to ear.

“I’m a yellow fruit but there are only three letters in my name,” Ruby Woofwinkle
said. “It must be a...”

“Banana!” cried Patch
Woofwinkle, holding up
a yellow fruit from the grocery store.

“Oh but banana has
six letters, doesn’t it?”
asked Ruby.

“Banana has 1 b, 2 n’s and 3 a’s—so only three letters all together!” said Patch.

All the teams cheered—
because each of them
had solved a clue,
which meant...

“Everybody gets a treat,”
said Myra.

“Banana cream pie
for everyone!”
Milo announced.

“We love scavenger hunts,”
said Lolo and Lila.
“And bananas!”

Lil' WOODZEEZ

It's Saturday at Honeysuckle Market Square—and a busy day for the O'Funnigan family, Myra and Milo, and their children, Lila and Lolo. The monkeys are popular event planners, and today they have organized a fun scavenger hunt for kids while the parents do their shopping.

At first all seems to be going well. It looks like the players on all four teams will get a treat! But then, oh-oh. Lila and Lolo begin to worry: Maybe one of the clues they thought up is just too difficult to solve!
